[15:20] <bammbino> @DarksydePhil upgrade this trash car! spend all of your ingame money
[15:21] <talionsshadow1138> doesn't the mini-map tell you about shortcuts? I remember previous NFS games do that [15:21] <kinggoken> is dsp only doing one stream tonight
[15:21] <kushiyakitori> you passed them when you saw the track the first time. even took one of them once
[15:21] <kjones4140> Put skittles, m&m's and reeses in a bowl
[15:21] <kjones4140> with BANANAS
[15:21] <kushiyakitori> and yes, you can also see the road split for a shortcut at times on the minimap. it happens during this race
[15:21] <talionsshadow1138> though I was about like 8 years old when I was playing the original NFS Most Wanted and reacted just like Phil did
[15:21] <talionsshadow1138> but then again, I sucked back then

[15:21] <kinggoken> didn't this game get bad reviews?
[15:21] <i_came_here_to_something> Phil you should try more arcade-style racing games b/c many of them usually have shortcuts on their tracks. That's part of the fun in them, like the Cruisn' series and San Fran Rush, or Crazy Taxi etc
[15:21] <superslygaming> Hahaha
[15:21] <allntzz> hey remember Cheetos mac'ncheese on DSP tries it Kappa

[15:23] <i_came_here_to_something> @Kinggoken Not really; the point of shortcuts is to give a reward for players who learn the course layout, and for speedruns.

[16:14] <bluegreentomato> hey I found a link to a video of someone beating this race....how do I pass that along to dsp?
[16:14] <secretbossfight> Rubber-banding does happen in some games, though. Mario Kart used to give you a "rival" specific to the character you picked who could go above their top speed to always be breathing down your neck [16:14] <bethemadeagle> bear i like normal kisses the nice wet slob ones you do
[16:14] <bammbino> @burnout26 they should have made this a points based thing like in mario kart type games.. i.e 2nd place adds X points 3 is Y etc [16:14] <krowsader> omg he is still on this race?
[16:14] <buckrog3rs> who designs a racing game with walls that reach out and grab ya? I mean c'mon! ;)
